MR. DUNN FOREVER IN OUR HEARTS

Never Forgotten: Mr. Otis Dunn By Kashleigh Redd

In March of 2016, Thornridge High School suffered a great loss. One of our long standing staff members suddenly passed away. Mr. Otis Dunn, had been a staff member since 2000. His last position was that of the Truancy Officer. The staff who knew him best had this to say when asked, “What is your most cherished memory of Mr. Dunn?”:

Mr. Broom - “I am the truancy officer that has the task of taking over for Mr. Dunn after his untimely passing. I knew Mr. Dunn for probably, almost twenty years. We worked together over at Thornton. What I remember most about him was his uplifting spirit and he was always a positive person; positive with all the students, staff. And he is going to be greatly missed. It’s a big job and I know I got big shoes to fill, but it’s going to leave a big hole in the Thornridge heart for a little while, but I know Mr. Dunn, he is always going to be around; We feel his presence around us every day. He is definitely going to be missed and never forgotten.”

Mr. Morgan- “I just wanted to say that Mr. Otis Dunn, I had the opportunity to work with for many years. The last nine of which were as dean of students in conjunction with his job as an attendance officer and a district officer. Mr. Dunn was a fantastic gentleman, tremendously professional. Always willing to do his job the right way, but never so much so that he could not stop to help young people. I observed Mr. Dunn on many occasions helping young people get through their situations, overcome their negative circumstances and trying to become a much better person because of it. Mr. Dunn was tremendous at helping young people. He realized where he was and where he came from, the type of background he enjoyed growing up in, the successes that he had, and he worked to the very end to help our young people enjoy some of those same successes. He will be dearly missed. He was a fantastic gentleman, friend, colleague, and Thornridge High School is definitely all the worse for wear because of his untimely passing. May he Rest in Peace.”

Mr. Wafford- “What I miss about Mr. Dunn is being able to just sit there and talk family, occasionally sports but mainly family.”

Ms. Ousley- “I liked that Mr. Dunn is very personable and down to earth. Makes you feel comfortable talking to him. He would relate different things to real life stories. He was just very personable. I will miss his stories and talking to him about everything. He would just sit down and talk to you.”

Ms. T- “I liked his sarcasm and sincerity at the same time. So that definitely will be missed in the building. He was a nice man overall. When I found out he passed, I felt sad for his family, I thought about his daughters and wife. He will be missed and those are shoes that will never be filled in the building.”

Mrs. Williams- “Mr. Dunn was very instrumental for both my position as a teacher and as Student Activities Director. We actually had a personal relationship as well. He has three daughters, and so do I. So a lot of our talks had to do with our daughters and his daughters are older and my daughters are growing, so we had a lot of heart to heart talks in reference to our girls. But when it came time to our position, he was fair. A lot of the students that had activities, when they would have detention, he would work with them, he would negotiate with them. He was a mentor, not only to students but to us as staff. He was just a great person. I saw him the Monday before to take the attendance down for PARCC exams, so of course we talked for a second. To just see him one minute and then the next minute he was gone; it just made me appreciate life a lot more because it is not promised to anybody. I have been doing a lot of soul searching and thinking, just living life to the fullest for myself. I would encourage all students to do the same because we don’t know when the lord is going to take us. I’m glad that he lived a long life. I’m glad that he impacted a lot of people because his time here on earth was precious.”

Who likes cheaters?

By Kashleigh Redd

Is cheating getting worse throughout the years of school? Sure everybody may have cheated on a test or homework assignment once or twice. Maybe even more than that. Experts say the reasons are relatively simple: Cheating has become easier and more widely tolerated, and both schools and parents have failed to give students strong, repetitive messages about what is allowed and what is prohibited. Question, what have you observed about cheating? If there seems to be more of it, why do you think that is?

Brandon Shield, 12, said “Cheating is bad and you are doing badly for yourself because you never know if you will need to know the subject you are being tested on the future.” Brandon has a very good point because what if in the future, you will need the resources for yourself, but you cheated off of somebody from the past. You have to do your own work to succeed on your own. If you do not get the work find somebody to help you get it. Even if you do not think the teacher is good at explaining things, ask your friends, or a family member. There is a high chance that someone besides the teacher can help you with your work.

The cons in cheating in school are:
a) the feeling of guilt when given praise
b) get moved up into pro grams that are even more difficult tounderstand which leads to more cheating

c) special attention, based on untruth
d) group participation and public exposure that may uncover a lack of knowledge
e) you get a job that you don’t have the skills for
f) potentially raising the grading curve for other students,
g) lose scholarships. Essence Arrington said “Cheating is a bad habit to have and can lead to becoming a liar but I can understand why students are cheating.”

The pros in cheating are:
a) a better grade
b) spend less money in school because you get placed in higher classes
c) higher GPA
d) selection by talent scouts,
e) historical records at the school
f) a chance to get scholarships
g) graduate sooner
h) academic awards
i) teacher recommendations.

The pros of cheating makes cheating sound so much better. LaTonya McCollum, 11, said, “I really don’t care, do what you gotta do to pass. nah mean? Do you, just don’t get caught.”

The pros and cons of cheating vary. If you necessarily, absolutely need to cheat, I mean in my opinion do. I am not saying it is right, But at the end you know your consequences.

What is it, to be a hero?

By Fernando Hernandez

What is it, to be a hero? Look in the mirror and you’ll know. Look into your own eyes and tell me you are not heroic, that you have not suffered or lost things you care about most.

Here you are a survivor of life, a difficult path filled with hard decisions us humans have to make. You are not young or old, man or woman, boy or girl you are alive and therefore you are a hero. We may not be the heroes in comic books, tv shows or movies.

Everyone has fought a battle before and won, whether it’s political, physical or mental. All of us have suffered any cruelty the world could bring us, but only we have the strength to survive, to win and to be hero that every one of us are. People think of heroes as in the fictional characters like Superman, Batman or Hercules. We may not wear mask or dress up in a suit, but we are all heroes and we can save the world together. Heroes are people who stand of what is right, help one another whether its paramedics saving lives, or the police putting way criminals. We are all heroes and we all have our own strengths that makes all of us different. A hero is a person who lives among us, who lives with us in the world always here, but rarely recognized.

Look in the mirror and see what you really are, you are a hero and this is our world. Everyone is different we all have our own destiny for fill, but we all have the power of our own will to make our decisions. All of us gets to decide their own fate and I choose to be a hero.

The Young Core of FCCLA takes the ISHA by Storm!

By Mrs. Mitrovich

On Monday, April 11, 2016, Thornridge’s FCCLA competed in the ISHA competition. FCCLA’s representative, Jamiah Glover won a Silver Medal in Career Investigation. Cyann Knox received a Silver Medal in National Programs in Action, along with Tiara Roberson as a team to bring home the Bronze Medal in Focus in Children.

Although, they didn’t break the National birth for the first in this history, the girls did the most they could possibly do and learned some valuable information. With playoff experience like this, a young core to boot, and a great teacher representative in Mrs. Mitrovich to coach them, they can hit great strides next year and break the glass ceiling they’re hungry to over come.

The girls were incredibly humble, full of grace, and were one of the best groups to take on the challenge with heart and grit. Be proud for your classmates as they made some noise for Thornridge.

Do you have time to yourself?

By Kashleigh Redd

Does your life give you enough time to relax? Imagine your life with more resting and less working. Imagine more resting and more breaks from school. Would that change in your life affect you in any way? Comments on this topic indicate that some people have an affirmative reaction to that change and some people have worries and/or stress about the change.

Sometimes you have too much work to even think about relaxing. As long as you get what you needed to do during each day, you should have time to relax. Sometimes you stress and worry about the things that you did not do that is needs to be done.

How do you balance all the things you need to do in an average day with the need to sleep and rest? Well Troy Ross said “My life gives me enough time to relax. I have baseball all the time, and homework. But if you get your priorities straight then everything will work out.”

Troy has a point, if you finish what you have to do and work hard, it will pay off in the end with relaxation. Andrianna Bean, junior, said “I think that it’s just the way you handle your schedule.”

I have AP classes and ALOT of homework. I just find ways to relax while working. How does that work? Well easy, I LOVE music, so while I work, I start to listen to music. That seems to work for me. I enjoy the music, work, and end with a very positive mood. You have chances to enjoy life, you just got to find the right moment. If you can’t find it, then it’s because you got too much things going on and just got to slow down or find a way to escape like me.

Research shows that naps in the middle of the day have helped people improve in their mood. When you are cranky and do not want to talk to anybody just because you are sleepy, that shows you are in a bad mood. More sleep at night can help improve tour performance the next day.

We have to be responsible sometimes, but is being sleep deprived your fault? What things can you change in schedule to get more sleep or more time to relax? Kyra Love said “I think us students should have enough time to sleep in the mornings! It makes you feel energized and ready to learn! When us students get 5 to 6 hours of sleep that’s not enough we need 8 to 10 hours to sleep, and the teacher’s wonder why us students don’t get enough sleep or if we fall asleep in class! Some teacher’s need to lay off and let us sleep if we pay attention and listen! When us students don’t get enough sleep they are not energized and they don’t want to do anything!

Everybody has their own opinion in getting enough relaxation time. You do not want to stress yourself when you are young. As long as your priorities are straight, you should be straight. The work you have accomplished will not stress you out and will eventually leave you time to relax.

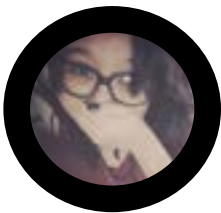

Continuation to relaxation: Here are some tips on how to relax yourself when you are stressed and/or tired.

1. Sip Green Tea.
2. Slurp Some Honey.
3. Bite Into a Mango.
4. Chew Gum.
5. Munch on a Crunchy Snack (such as chips, pop-corn, apples, etc.).
6. Meditate.
7. Lay Your Head on a Cushion or Pillow.
8. Count Backwards (start at 10 or 20).
9. Give Yourself a Hand Massage.
10. Give Yourself a Hand Massage (or any small spherical object).

Healthy, Quick Breakfast

By Litzy Melchor

Fizzy hair, bad breath, pajama clothes on and you’re out the door? Does this sound like most of your mornings? Of course everyone knows that breakfast is the most important meal of the day and when you miss it you feel the dizziness, the headaches and above all the annoyance of the students and teachers. You feel like everyone should just leave you alone and all that because you missed breakfast.

Here’s an easy recipe from Bethany Mota’s back to school video which you can find on YouTube to solve the problem of missing breakfast in the morning:

Ingredients/ Tools:

- 1.)1 bag of mini marshmallows
- 2.)5 cups of Honey nut cheerios
- 3.)Cooking spray
- 4.)Medium Bowl
- 5.)Spoon
- 6.)Microwave

4. Pop the bowl into the microwave for 1 minute
- 5.When the 1 minute is up take a spoon and mix it then pop it into the microwave for another 1 minute for 5 minues.
6. When done leave to cool for 3 minutes.

Breakfast is the most important meal of the day.

Steps:

- 1.In a bowl spray cooking spray all in the bowl.
- 2.Place the 5 cups of honey nut cheerios into the bowl.
- 3.Add a couple of the mini marshmallows into the bowl of cheerios.

7. When coool grab a spoonful of the cherrios mold it into a a mini bar.
8. when done put them on a plate and leave in the fridge
9. Tada! You have delicious quick morning breakfast bar.

Cheating Makeup!

By Litzy Melchor

Now we all want to have the perfect makeup. Especially when we’re trying to look good for someone because we are self-consciences of ourselves. In the survey, carried out by online retailer Escentual.com, more girls than ever are starting to wear make-up from the age of 11 - three years younger than it was a decade ago. Now you cheat makeup with these 1 easy trick? If your struggling doing your cat eye? Here is an easy trick to get the perfect cat eyes.

TOOLS:

- Scotch tape
- Liquid liner

STEP ONE: After already lining the lash line, first place the tape on the back of your hand a few times to make it less sticky. Then depending on how high or thick you want the cat eye angle it near your lower lash line.

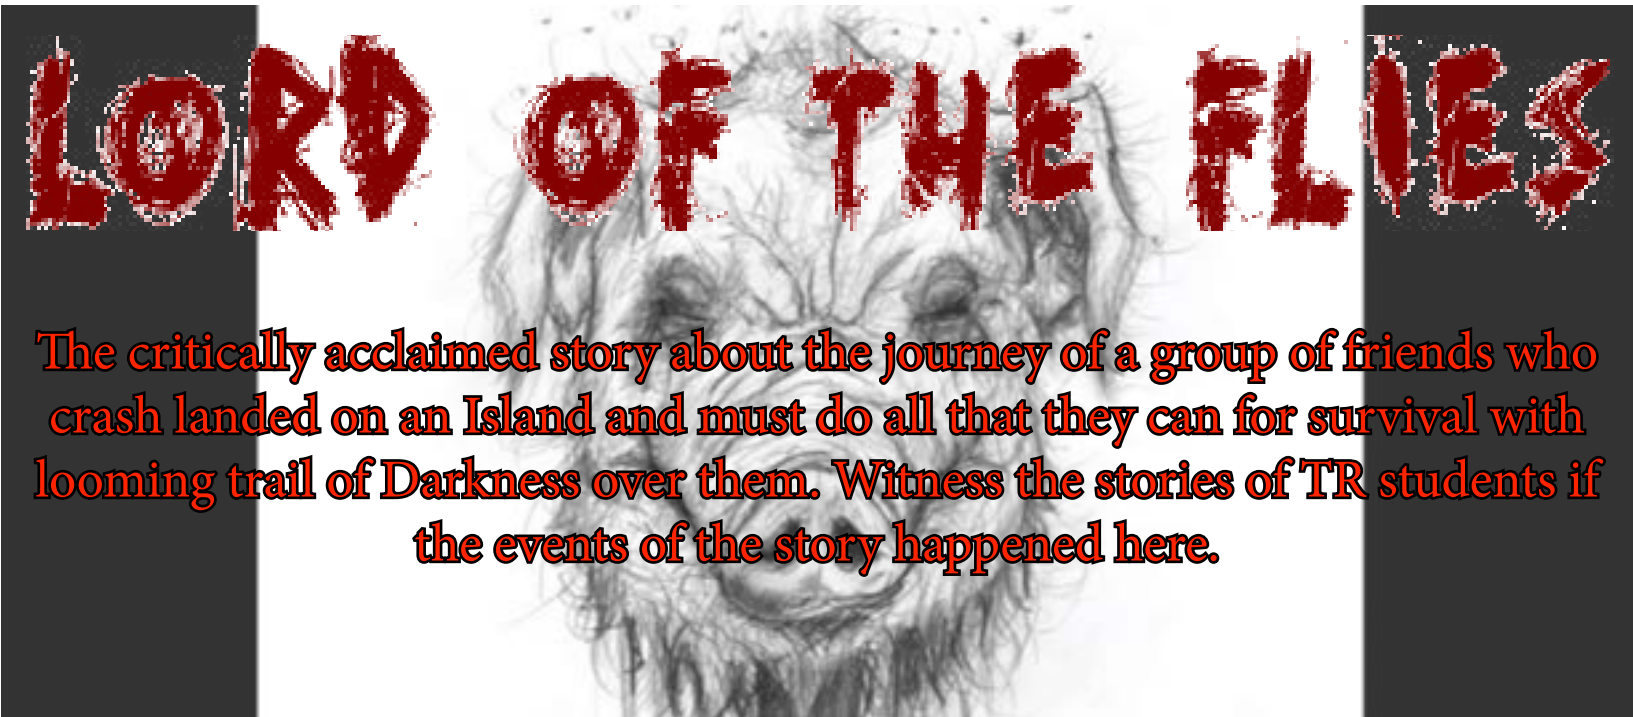

STEP TWO: With the tape in place, slowly in small strokes draw the wing either from the bottom up or from the top down.

STEP THREE: Gently peel off the tape, giving you a smooth bottom edge. You can also do this with eye shadow. First repeat step 1.

Then apply the eyeshadow however you desire afterwards you can choose to add the wing with liquid liner on top the eyeshadow. Then tada!

My Top Video Game of All Time

By Germal Brown

God of War III is an action adventure third person video game developed by Santa Monica Studios and published by Sony Computer Entertainment and was released on March 16, 2010 for the PlayStation 3.

There is no video game or series that I admire more that God of War III because of many reasons. The game is loosely based on greek mythology and set in Ancient Greece. God of War III follows the main protagonist, Kratos who, after he was betrayed by Zeus, ascends Mount Olympus to kill the Gods of Olympus. The gameplay of God of War III is that of an hack-and-slash game with Kratos wielding dual short blades to defeat enemies. The story picks up form God of War II, with Kratos taking on the God of Olympus with the Titans. God of War III is the dramatic conclusion to the God of War series and to the end of a console exclusive. In the end, God of War III is a hack-and-slash video game that proves itself to be a pinnacle in the world of video games.

When it comes down to it, everyone has different tastes on everything, and that applies to video games. For people who play video games, there is always a kind of game for everyone to enjoy, from fun and simple games to more challenging and thought-provoking games. The point is, if you love video games, just stick to what you love.

Lord of The Flies: Homecoming

By Deja Bailey

The Classrooms were silent as the principals talked on the intercom. He had just announced that a bunch of schoolmates, from Freshman to Senior, has gone missing. They were on their way to study in another country not too far form when their air craft went missing. Everyone looked around in shock of the news. We can only hope that they would re-turn home safely, even if some weren't likeable as others.

Some people crowded them and others gave them space and simply smiled and said "Welcome Home."

Over the next couple of months the one-day-somber school was buzzing again. Things were "normal" you could say when the rather excited principal made an arrangement. The missing falcons had been found on a deserted island not too far from out in the Atlantic Ocean. Everyone was relieved and happy. It wouldn't be for nearly two before they could attend school again. They had to readjust to the society and need to rest at home. They had surely been through a lot and need the home therapy. Everyone at TR was glad to find the once-missing-now-found boys. Some people crowded them and others gave them space and simply smiled and said "Welcome Home." In passing. The boys would either humbly or boisterously told their story.

They told their class mates how the panes engine gave out. They landed on an island and the pilot landed them in survival. He divided them up into groups for food, guarding and fire duty. They lived without much supplies and absolutely no technology. They dragged on about how they couldn't check their Instagram's or Facebooks.

Finally one day their fire was seen, an armed ship docked and rescued our beloved falcons. They shared how happy and blessed they are to be home. Everybody else felt so too. Yes, it was a glorious homecoming indeed.

Lord of The Flies Narrative

By Dawn Russell

The Sun shined brightly and the morning beams glimmered upon his face as if in mockery of the darkness in his soul. Ralph brooded into his first period and slumped down next to me. I could feel the grief and loss of innocence radiating from him as I grabbed his hands, Two days before Ralph's return he learned of the plane that crashed and landed the by the boys in a virtual hell.

It's as if the golden glow of his skin has faded to gray."

but he never even smiles. It's as if the golden glow of his skin has faded to gray.

At time he tells me the guys and the horrors of the island. In his eyes I can see the gore, I can imagine Jack chanting "Kill the pig!" and can hear Piggy's skull crack open from the boulders as he become one of the sea. In the school and in we learn that innocence is stolen or taken away by the world or Adulthood.

We all knew that jack was narcissistic and high strung, but we never knew that he'd be a murderous tribe leader. Classes won't be the same without Piggyand Simon. Piggy was hilarious and wise and Simon was an introverted genius. Ralph is my best friend

No person would've guessed that a pack of mere boys could manage to steal each other's innocence. Yet here we are all subjects to the lust of flesh and the Dionysian desires of our cruelest forms. God is gracious and omnipotent but perhaps God's grace didn't extend to wolves.

Congratulations to the TR Music Department!

The band clinched 2 Superior Ratings at the ISHA (Illinois High School Association) State Organizationals in Jazz AND in Concert Band. Amazing work by the Band Director, Mr. Douglas and the pristine Jazz and Concert Bands

Keep up the phenomenal work and keep the dynasty rolling!

Social(Iy inept) Media

BY AARON COLE

How one story of a man losing it all gains more knowledge from the dangers of social media.

Social media has had a heavy influence for the last decade or as the internet has evolved into the mega giant platform: from Facebook, Instagram, Kik, Snapchat, and many other social media giants and rising stars. It’s almost reaching scary levels of integration because most don’t seem to understand how to moderate the use of it or worse put heavily personal things on there that most would like to keep private. In recent news, the NFL Draft has been a major part of drama recently due to the involvement of one draft prospect, Laremy Turnsil.

Laremy is a college football player who has made major strides in his tenure and impressed a lot of scouts with it along with his stats during his Pro day and combine workout. According to a lot of prospects, they predicted the man to be a top 5 draft pick. So what exactly happened to him that day? Literally 10 minutes before the start of the draft, on his twitter account a video of him uploaded on it showing him smoking using a gas mask with a bong attached to the end. He immediately deleted his account then soon reinstated it claiming there was a hacker on his Social media accounts. And soon after that another post was soon uploaded to his Instagram account showing text messages between him and his coach showing him asking for money to pay off bills his mother was having. The situation had gotten so bad that some beat writers wrote that most teams took his name of the board after the first and second video became known to the team. He eventually did get drafted by the Miami Dolphins who picked him up at spot #13.

The massive drop in the draft has decreased his value so bad that he lost 10 million dollars because of those two posts. 10 million dollars this man lost because some hacker posted those two incriminating things on his social media accounts. These are the consequences and dangers of having social media accounts or the very least not using moderation to the fullest extent on them. Because events like this, although the Laremy Turnsil one has been marked as a league of its own, there are still other stories of equally negative stories of how this has affected people.

The unhealthy use has gotten bad that now companies are affectively looking through employees (or those who try to apply work at said company) social media accounts to find criminating things posted on their Social Media accounts. Examples from the likes of use of drugs like marijuana, Lean, etc. Withholding things like firearms or just negative problematic things on there to use against them. . Even if you’re not worried about companies, you still can deal with Law enforcement using that data and information against you. What’s worse is that most companies already like Google, Facebook, etc. use that info for private matters such as that or in order to sell you products thanks to the free info you’re giving them and they won’t hesitate to turn over this info if they want to.

Overall, it’s important to realize that the use of Social Media is completely fine as it allows others to stay connected to family and friends and be apparent of something far bigger than the normality that others are used to in their areas. But as it’s been said, the negative use of it or non-teachings about keeping private matters to yourself and being aware that the use of things should not be a focal point of said lives.

Sanders, Clinton, or Trump?

By Kashleigh Redd

Who do you want our next president to be? It is very important to know who is running our country. As our generation now, we need to know how important it is to vote. Everybody sure does not want Trump to be our next president. Why can’t Barack Obama be president forever? He has been a great president.

It is very important to vote because we do not want presidents like Donald Trump. Imagine it being your fault because Trump won presidency by one more vote than the other presidents. Presidential race includes Donald Trump, Bernie Sanders, and Hillary Clinton. Who do you want our president to be?

Students around the school had chosen who they wanted to be our next president to be.

Bernie Sanders: 27 students would vote for him

Hillary Clinton: 11 Students would vote for her

Donald Trump: 2 students would vote for him

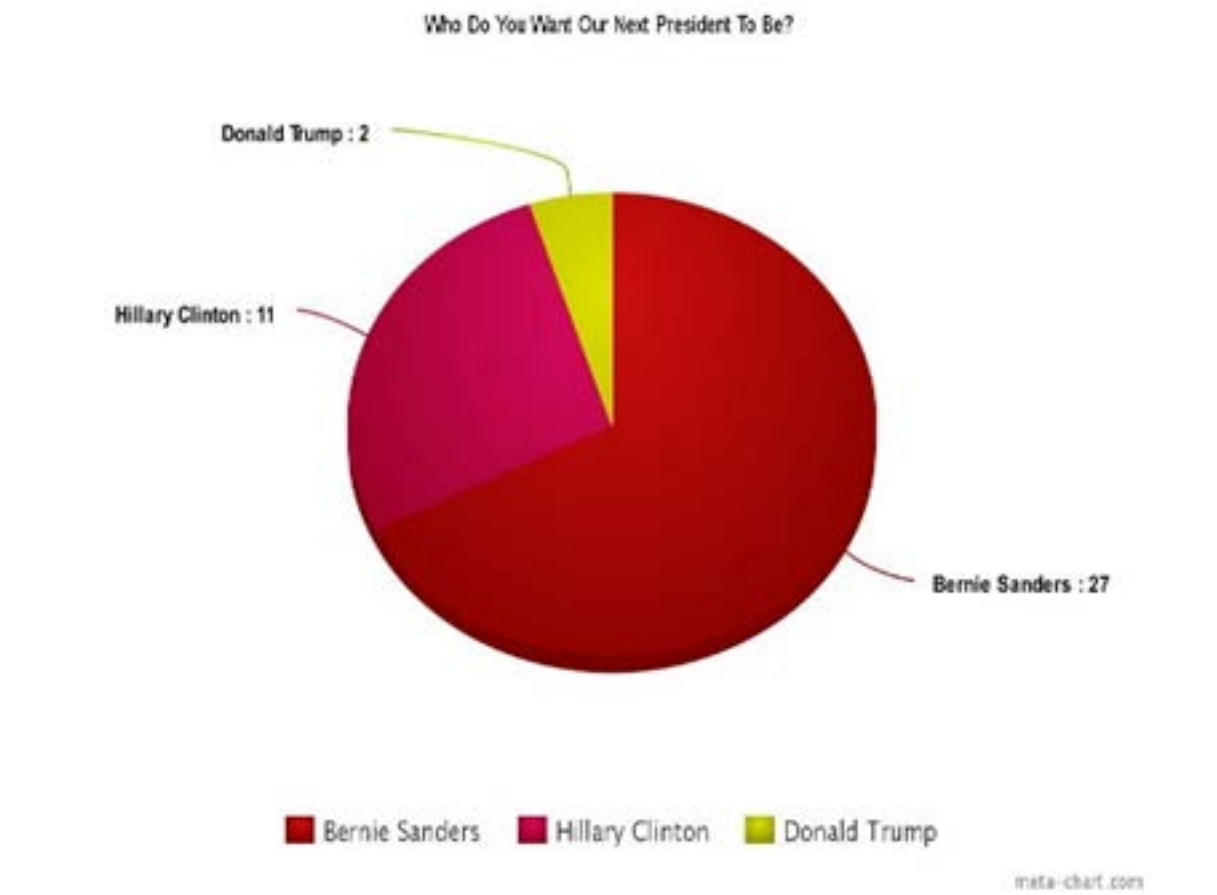

Student Commentary:

Ashley Morgan said “If we could vote Donald Trump off of the presidency election I would so vote for that.”

Students who would vote for Trump would rather be anonymous. I would want to be anonymous too if I were them.

Adrianna Bean, said, “If any person would be stupid enough to vote for Trump might as well just suffer from him being president anyway because Trump is going to be horrible at this.”

By: Kashleigh Redd

I, myself, Kashleigh Redd, am a part of the softball team and I have to say we did pretty well as long as we stuck together and worked hard. The softball team had a rough start due to the weather. This weather is so bipolar they had to cancel the first few games in the beginning of the season. Once the softball team had played some games, it was a little stressful. The teammates stuck together and helped fix the mistakes we made during the game.

As a team I have seen some progress in our throwing, catching, and bating. Although “somebody” got hit in the head twice with a softball, but that is irrelevant. Coach Battle and Coach Jackson, varsity’s coaches, are good, even though sometimes they had their bad days. Coach Becker and Coach McGriggs are the Junior varsity (JV) coaches.

The softball team is fighting their way through the season to win some games. Sometimes it is not all about winning it is about having fun. “...as long as you all play like winners because it is not all about winning” Is what coach Jackson tells the girls on the softball team. Throughout the season we had a great time, we worked hard, and tried our best. I am proud of our team.

The girls softball team making sure they are leading off their bases on every pitch.

Batter up! Softball team member readies in her stance.
